An Egg Record.

C. Chamberlain takes great pride in his Leghorn hens. In the west he used to take prizes at the leading fairs.

During April six of these birds, of which were on the sick list the greater part of the time, laid 284 eggs.

It is a fine record and he is confident that during May the progress made so far, he will have 300.

Victorian Order of Nurses.

F. W. Taylor, of the Bank of Montreal, has been empowered to act as local treasurer for the Canadian fund for the commemoration of the Queen's diamond jubilee by founding the Victorian Order of Nurses in Canada. He will visit the residents of Deseronto in charge. Our readers will be interested with this scheme which has been inaugurated by Her Excellency the Governor General. The object, in brief, is to provide skilled nurses in sparsely settled and outlying country districts and to attend the sick poor in their own homes.

The object is to provide skilled nurses in sparsely settled and outlying country districts and to attend the sick poor in their own homes.

It is proposed to raise, if possible, one million dollars as an endowment fund. It is thought this can be accomplished by each family sending a contribution. We hope that Deseronto will respond to this charitable appeal.

C. Bennett's Greenery.

C. Bennett who during the past winter moved on the lot formerly occupied by W. Egan, on the York road, about half a mile west of Deseronto, is rapidly getting his place into shape.

Already started only in March his place is now in an interesting sight for the visitor. One can hardly be surprised to find his stock so varied and complete. The greenery is full of everything that can be found in such an establishment at this season of the year.

Mr. Bennett has a large demand for his stuff and there is little doubt that he will enjoy a liberal patronage. His plants and flowers have been purchased from the most reliable houses. He offers for sale the following among others: Gladioli, geraniums, pelargoniums, cyclamen, carnations, petunias, verbenas, stocks, double and single, dianthus, asters, mignonette, pinks, daisies, lobelias, alysiums, pansies, etc.

Also, various kinds of vegetables, cauliflowers, etc., etc.

Local—Legal.

At Osgoode Hall, Toronto, on Tuesday, Judge Street gave judgment in the case, Dart vs. McCullough, an action tried at the recent court in Belleville. It is thus a case of local interest.

The plaintiff, Mr. Dart, had made an assignment to defendant for the general benefit of creditors, and this action was brought after the declaration of a first and final dividend for the purpose of compelling defendant to account for and divide certain assets come to his hands and not divided. Held, that plaintiff has a right to the assets in question so as to account to the creditors of plaintiff for these moneys in order that his liabilities may be paid.

Perth Steel Wheel Works.

Perth, May 8.—The Forged Steel Car Wheel Company of Perth has commenced operations and successfully finished a forged steel wheel for a railway car this afternoon. This company operates under the patent granted by the Dominion of Canada. The process, which is very simple, was witnessed by hundreds of people of Perth, Lanark, Berwickshire, Carlisle Place and adjacent places. The officers, directors and stockholders of the company were entirely satisfied with the results.

Mr. P. P. Suter, the Vice-President of the company, had his coat off and sleeves rolled up working with the steel workers, who were brought in from Philadelphia to assist in the work. The company intends putting in additional machinery at once and putting up a steel plant in the future, with a view of making all the steel used in the manufacture of steel wheels for steam roads and trolley cars.

Had Place for a Fire.

New York, May 8.—Fifty or more men climbed and one died when they tried to place a fire department at a fire in Chambers street last night.

The fire was in the large cold storage warehouse of the Merchants Refrigerating Company, and it was the fumes of ammonia and the heaviest of smoke that struck down the firemen.

The dead frozen in John Reinhardt. The fire was a curious one and is estimated to have damaged to the extent of at least half a million.

The repeal of the Transvaal Immigration Act, complained of by Mr. Chamberlain, is regarded as a complete backdown by President Kruger, and measurably lessens the chances of war.

LONDON.

Potato Patch Inaugurated—A Lady Struck by a Trolley.

London, May 7.—The new garden plot for the use of the poor—one of the schemes of the Organized Charity Society—is to be named after the President of the society, "Pease's Potato Patch."

Flourishing begins to-morrow on the 5-acre south-west of the barracks, donated by Mr. Edward Daly. It will be divided into 25 plots. The society will give the potato seed, and Mr. Pease will present the small seed for other garden vegetables.

The land will be enclosed by a barbed-wire fence, and the occupants will be responsible for keeping it in order. Several applications have already been made for plots.

Duncan Dewar, charged with participation in the Newbury fracas, who was committed for trial, was bailed this morning by Mr. Arthur McDonald, of Newbury.

The Street Railway Company does not contemplate building a radial railway to Louisa and outlying points at present.

Mr. J. McLaughlin, formerly sheriff, living on King street, walked in front of a moving street car on Dundas street east and narrowly escaped being crushed.

The lady is completely dead, and apparently was not aware of her danger. The matron succeeded in stopping the car just as the fender was about to crush her.

McLaughlin was knocked down, but escaped with a fractured wrist and some slight bruises.

Perth Steel Wheel Works.

Perth, May 8.—The Forged Steel Car Wheel Company of Perth has commenced operations and successfully finished a forged steel wheel for a railway car this afternoon. This company operates under the patent granted by the Dominion of Canada. The process, which is very simple, was witnessed by hundreds of people of Perth, Lanark, Berwickshire, Carlisle Place and adjacent places. The officers, directors and stockholders of the company were entirely satisfied with the results.

Mr. P. P. Suter, the Vice-President of the company, had his coat off and sleeves rolled up working with the steel workers, who were brought in from Philadelphia to assist in the work. The company intends putting in additional machinery at once and putting up a steel plant in the future, with a view of making all the steel used in the manufacture of steel wheels for steam roads and trolley cars.

Had Place for a Fire.

New York, May 8.—Fifty or more men climbed and one died when they tried to place a fire department at a fire in Chambers street last night.

The fire was in the large cold storage warehouse of the Merchants Refrigerating Company, and it was the fumes of ammonia and the heaviest of smoke that struck down the firemen.

The dead frozen in John Reinhardt. The fire was a curious one and is estimated to have damaged to the extent of at least half a million.

MIXING NOTES.

It is now stated that the Deloro mispicks mines are turning out $1,000 a day in gold. The company have, however their regular staff, three gangs of prospectors hunting for fresh leads.

Prof. Miller may be appointed government assayer for Eastern Ontario. There has now a assay office thanks to the public enterprise of its people.

Important mineral discoveries have been made near Charleston Lake in Leeds county.
A gang of 7 men have begun operations at the Hickory mine in Marquette.

There is considerable mining excitement in the country round about Cloyne.
A gold boom is on at Flinton, and prospectors and capitalists are arriving daily at the hotels, and many operations have been taken up.

Inspector Burrows has a gang of men opening up his mine near Flinton. They have struck mispickel in large quantities.

Near Flinton Patrick Guina has discovered a gold mine which, it is said, he has sold for $5,000 in cash.
A good sample of mispickel ore was recently taken from the property of Thos. Hamilton, 3rd con. of Marquette.

The people throughout the dominion have become accustomed to the announcements of the discovery of gold in the different parts of the country. But now comes the announcement, instead of gold, that the people found in this country in Lavant township on the farm now owned by John McLean, a son of late Mr. McLean, Barry and O'Brien, of Renfrew, interested themselves in the find and sunk a shaft to the depth of seventy-five feet. Samples were assayed and are reported to have given an excellent yield. Several American gentlemen were expected there on Monday with a view to making a further and more extensive test. The precious metal has been found in that vicinity before and it is now thought that a good vein may be struck. Quite a boom will be created in that and the surrounding townships if such is the case.—Lanark Era.

A rich strike of mispickel and gold has been located on 29, on the 10th concession of Danganong, by Thomas Warren, miner, of Marquette. The lode is twenty feet wide and 400 yards long, and was found on the property belonging to George McLean. A sample of the rock was received at this office yesterday and experts pronounce it the finest they have seen. If expectations are realized Mr. McLean will be a blessed capitalist before many more years roll around.—Times.

The Fort William Journal says—Twenty miles from the C. P. R. track near Schreiber, a vein of gold has just developed astonishing indications of richness. Reports received at this office are true, this mine will throw some of the best Kootenay bonanzas far into the shade.

The Schreiber vein in question is from 50 to 200 feet. It is a vein of gold, $200 and $300 to the ton. The railroaders took hold of this property some time ago, having purchased it for a song. They thought there might be something in it for the claim, and have been working on it within the past few weeks. If the present promise fulfils itself they have struck the biggest luck of the season.

Only a few days ago a fine deposit of mispickel ore was found on the property of James Wyckoff, formerly the Bill farm, south of the G. T. R. station. R. B. Case, land agent, secured the title on the property and has men at work opening up the deposit. The specimens already taken out show a very rich quality of mispickel, and so far the indications are most favorable for an extensive supply of the ore.

Within a few hundred yards of the old "find" the rich deposit lately discovered on the Cross road, the old Loomis farm. The unusually rich assays made of Mr. Cross's ore, given in these columns a couple of weeks ago, are not individual cases, but are the result of development work, and he has now a fine gang engaged in "stripping" and opening the vein. The ore is the same quality, but apparently richer, than that of the Deloro mine, and the indications for an extensive deposit are much more favorable than was that now celebrated mine.

We may confidently hope to see gold reduction works, mills, etc., in Madoc in the near future.—Madoc Review.

Prof. Montgomery, of Trinity University, Toronto, has completed an assay of a sample from J. H. Mills' property, lot 8 in the 6th Con. of Elzevir, and reports that it gives $45 in gold to the ton, with a trace of silver. This is an exceedingly satisfactory result, and more particularly so as the rock was taken from the surface.

A NEW OFFENCE.

Ottawa, May 17.—Sir Oliver Mowat has drafted a bill to the criminal code, which will ask parliament to enact, with a view to setting right the doctrine of matrimony. The clause provides that everyone is guilty of an indictable offence, and is liable to a fine of not more than one thousand dollars, or to one year's imprisonment, or to both, who lives openly or notoriously with another person as man and wife, and without any claim or pretence of their being married to one another.

SUING THE STREET RAILWAY COMPANY.
Vancouver, B. C., May 15.—The first of the suits for damages against the Consolidated street railway company and the corporation of Victoria, arising out of the Point Ellice disaster, which took place on May 25th of last year, is now being heard in the supreme court before Justice Justice Day and a special jury. The plaintiff is Mrs. Gordon, widow of J. B. Gordon, a well known business agency, who was on the underpass when it broke through the bridge, losing for $25,000 damages. She gained her case.

COMPLETES A YEAR.
The Westminster for May completes the first year for that admirable Canadian periodical's publication. The successful numbers have shown steady progress and have given promise of distinct success.

"The Breaking of the League" by Ralph Gordon, a well known business agency, who was on the underpass when it broke through the bridge, losing for $25,000 damages. She gained her case.

A NOTED COLONIAL GOVERNOR.
Few men have seen more of Imperial rule in all its manifold forms than Sir William Robinson, who died in London last month. It fell to his lot to govern nine colonies in every quarter of the globe. Among them was Prince Edward Island, where he was governor from 1870 to 1879, a transition period from isolation to federation, during which his tact and experience were of the highest service. He cherished in his mind a noble ideal, the memories of his residence in the island were the charms of which, as a place of residence he was never tired of extolling. He was a second parent to any other British colony, even Western Australia.

HERE'S ANOTHER TROY CASE.
San Francisco, May 15.—Theo. Durant, through his attorneys, will ask the grand jury to indict him on the ground that the real murderer of Blanche Lamont has at last confessed his crime. The lawyers declare that the confession was made by a convict at San Quentin prison, where he discovered the man who is guilty of the horrors of Emmanuel church.

The confession was made a sworn confession before a notary public and in the presence of several witnesses, that he killed Blanche Lamont at the circumstances, and in consideration of the payment of $700 for his bloody work. Rosenberg is a Russian sailor, and arrived in this country in 1870, from Hamburg, Germany, during the last week of March, 1885, or on the first day of April. He is now serving a term for horse stealing and appears to be sane.

BRUTALITY OF THE MEN.
London, May 15.—The inquiry into the fire at the charity bazaar has been followed by the most keen interest in anticlerical circles at the French Capital. This inquiry has been followed by the evidence throwing light upon the cowardly conduct of many of the men. The examining Judge, M. Bertoulet, minutely investigated the circumstances, and he asserted that the names of several men guilty of brutal cowardice are known and that they will never again be admitted into Paris society.

RIGHT WILL PREVAIL.

There is not an inch of earth in this country so hard to our heart's fond affection as our dear old home.
We would leave it not to stain to ever leaving it in time.

Yet such evil exists which,
if not brushed away,
will surely be a curse
to our future day.

As some future day,
their pride and their greed will be the cause of their downfall and their end.

But the fact that the yoke of sin has been put on the neck of the nation is a warning to the nation.
The Lord will be true
to the nation.

And those houses of sin, of sinners, will be burned down to the ground.
The Lord will be true
to the nation.

Will pass still on their course,
given over to the Lord.
The Lord will be true
to the nation.

Like the mist clouds before the bright sun in the morning.

IN DREAMLAND.

It was the blackest night I ever saw.
The wind soured through the trees in fifteen gusts, and the house beat their heads before it in harmony. It was a night I shall never forget, as coupled with it is one of the strangest adventures of my eventful career.

I was seated on the veranda of the house in which I boarded. It was quite late. I remember hearing the tower clock strike 11. There is nothing in the world that will occupy a man's attention when seated alone in the dark like meditation. Suffice it to say that I was thinking.

How long I would have sat there I do not know. But as I happened to glance at the sky I noticed a faint light far off coming toward me. At first it was nothing but a speck dotting the horizon, but as it approached it grew momentarily larger. Bowed down, I watched it come on, and, as it got within 200 feet of me, I noticed that it was a gigantic object.

At last it arrived within 50 feet of me and landed. As the exploration of the minutes a form stepped out of the basket, and as the person got between myself and the light which hung from the balloon I noticed that it was a woman.

She stood straight on the garden path and on to the veranda and then to me.
Placing her hand on my shoulder, she said:

"My dear Henry, would you like to take a journey with me in my balloon on a peculiar errand?"

Her dear Henry! The woman was evidently mistaken, as my name was not Henry.

But before I had time to reply or collect my thought she went on:
"I knew you would, and it was needless to ask you. Henry, when I stated I loved you centuries ago it was indeed true, and when you died and left me I thought my heart would break, and I vowed then and there to watch over you and surely guard your remains. When you came—returned from—well, when you entered upon this second life I knew your heart was no longer mine, but I still maintained my watchfulness, and what did I see? I beheld you a week after your return to life—in a room with your arms around her. Well, to make a long story short, I have come tonight to show you her infidelity."

My God, was the woman insane?
What did she mean by a second life?
What did she know about centuries ago?
And, then, who did she take me for?
However, I made up my mind to see the thing out, so I replied:

"Well"—I was going to address her by name, but I knew none and would not make a foolish guess—"pet, how do I know where you were? In vain did I seek you."

But she interrupted me with:
"Let it pass, Henry; let it pass. It can make no material difference now.
But answer me. Would you like to see your present love?"

I admitted that I would, and I seated myself in the basket and watched her manipulate the machinery of the balloon. It was unlike any other balloon I had ever seen. It was a large, round form. She inflated it by simply touching a lever and then reversing it. There was no ballast in the basket. I watched her preparing for her aerial flight and scanned her face closely. It was a wonderful one, one which haunts me to this very day.

She touched a small button, and the massive structure swayed for a moment, then with the gracefulness of a bird sprang into the air and started upon its journey.

I will not attempt to describe what followed. I remember vaguely of holding that strange being in my arms and rashly kissing her pretty lips as we swooped through the air.

Releasing herself from my embrace, she sprang to the mechanism of the balloon and pulled back the largest lever with a quick jerk. We seemed to hover a moment for a moment and then shot swiftly downward. How far we dropped I had no means of ascertaining. But I had the satisfaction of seeing the thing settle easily down and—Heaven, how did the woman know that house? We had settled by the side of the house in which the young lady lived to whom I was then engaged.

About ten feet from where we were was a window, through which a bright light shone. This was very unusual in this house, considering the lateness of the hour.

Climbing out of the basket, I walked noiselessly to the window and gazed in.
It was a sight greeted my eyes. On a couch sat my Mary—my future wife—pale and at her side, his right arm around her waist and holding her hand with his left, sat a man whom I had never seen before.

My first impulse was to crash through the window and grasp him by the throat. But, on second thought, I decided to wait at least a few moments and see what would come.

In the meantime my companion had secured the balloon and had joined me.

Her words nettled me.

"Dear Henry, a pleasant sight, is it not?"

I made no answer, but peered into the window all the more eagerly. I saw him rise and throw himself at her feet, still retaining her hand. I saw his lips move and noticed her head shake from side to side. At last he arose, and—No one was prepared for what followed, at least I was not.

With a quick motion he brought forth a pistol, placed it against his temple and deliberately pulled the trigger. A flash followed by a sharp report, an agonizing shriek, and a cloud of smoke told the story all too plainly.

This was beyond all human endurance. I was about to spring through the window when my companion again asserted her magnetic influence.

"Not so fast, Henry," she said. "Tomorrow we go. I watched her as she endeavored to spread the parachute. But in vain. I heard her shriek of despair as she shot downward. I kept my eyes riveted on her until she faded away in the distance."

"Goodby, my love," she said. "When I drop, pull this lever—so, you see?— and that will bring the balloon to the ground in short notice. But remember that under no circumstances must you tamper with the other mechanism."

She climbed upon the edge of the basket, poised a moment and then threw herself from the balloon.

I saw her go. I watched her as she endeavored to spread the parachute. But in vain. I heard her shriek of despair
as she shot downward. I kept my eyes riveted on her until she faded away in
the distance."

A thought struck me. I could descend and see what had become of her. Springing to the side of the basket, I pulled the lever, but it failed to respond. Again and again did I pull, but it was useless.

Frankly I pressed a large button at my side. A dull roar seemed to issue from the inflated part of the balloon—a roar that gradually became deafening.
Slowly the balloon started to sink, gradually gaining speed as it descended.
It now fell so rapidly that certain destruction seemed to await me below.

Crossing to the other side, I peered below. Heaven, the housepots could not be so fully distinguished in the soft gray light of dawn! One house stood up boldly above the others. It was the house in which I lived, and if the balloon could not be checked I should fall right on it.

I looked over again, and this time the houses appeared to be a very short distance away. Could nothing be done?
No. The machinery still maintained its rigidity.

I closed my eyes and awaited the end.
There was a loud, rasping sound as the balloon struck the roof of the house, and—"Charlie, are you going to work this morning?"

It was my roommate's voice. Had I been dreaming? Well, I guess that was about the size of the whole adventure.
—Clarence McDonald in Outlook.

A Story of Deceit and Envy.
"By the way," said Eli Perkins in a reminiscent tone, "I rode up to Windsor with Mr. Everts one day. He was accompanied by a boy who was reading the morning paper. As soon as he recognized my voice he said: 'Come over here, Eli. You know what I want. Give me the digest of all the news and all the funny stories. Oh, I do miss the stories! What has Dewey said lately?'"

"A moment afterward we were talking about riding up to Windsor," said Eli, "and Mr. Everts, who was reading the morning paper, said: 'Now, Mr. Everts, you have ridden a good deal on the sleeper, and how did you like it? Did it sleep well—head to the engine, or foot toward the engine?'"

"Oh, you shouldn't come to a lawyer with such a question as that, Eli.
That isn't a law question; that is an engineering question. You should go to some engineer and ask him with such a question. Go and ask Dewey."

"But Dewey is a lawyer, isn't he?"
I said.

"Well, y-e-s—Dewey is a lawyer," Then, continued slowly and thoughtfully, "But I don't know any lawyer wouldn't bias him in answering any question."

"When I told this story at the Lotos club a week afterward, Dewey happened to be there. He laughed with the rest, but just before he left he leaned forward, with his hand over his mouth, and whispered to me:

"The story is all right, Eli, but if you want to say any more in New York I'll give you an annual on the road."

"Mr. Everts for years sent a half barrel of pork every year to Baneroff, the farmer, with a complimentary note.
No one ever read those notes but Bancroft. When the historian died, they found these notes from Everts, tied up with red tape by the hand of the dead man's servant."

"Dear Baneroff—If your history of America ever becomes as successful as Carlyle's History of the French Revolution, it will be lovely to be able to give you a note."
"Dear Baneroff—I send you two products of my pen. Only one will be of any use and the other will be of no use at all."

While out boating the other day Jas.
Fairbairn leaned over to take hold of a fender on another craft when it gave way and the artist slipped into the Lax. He took the editor's suit coat—and so do so in fact. It is one of those pleasant accidents which give a little more spice to a day's outing.

A matrimonial light is in full swing.
It is said that eight or ten weddings may be expected during the leafy month of June. Our society reporter states that fifty couples in town have already decided on this method of celebrating the Queen's diamond jubilee year, and that eighty nine other young ladies are ready to fall into line on the slightest provocation.

The Queen's Birthday.

The day was generally observed by the citizens of Deseronto. There was no celebration in town, but many went to Pictou and Kingston to witness the sports and military parades. Others went driving or sailing and the day was pleasantly enjoyed by all. Flags were flying from several buildings.

An Important Convention.

An event of great interest to those engaged in charity or prison reform work is the national conference of charities and correction, which meets in Toronto on Wednesday evening, July 7th, and continues in session until the afternoon of the 14th. As this is the first time the national conference has been held in Canada, it is important that Canadiana should show their appreciation of its presence and also learn something of the progress that is being made by this great movement on this continent.
The meetings will be open to all who are interested in charitable or general philanthropic work.

Railway Circles.

Daniel Wagar, of the Deseronto section, has been appointed a section foreman on the Bay of Quinte railway and with his family has moved to Tunaworth. Henry Wagar, formerly of the Deseronto section, it will be remembered is also foreman at Enterprise. Both these men are very efficient railway truckmen and with others who have come to the front have pursued their calling under E.
M. Wallbridge, truckmaster at Deseronto. It is a compliment to Mr.
Wallbridge that so many of his men staff thus advanced to better positions.

Death of Mrs. W. N. Dean.

Mrs. Wm. N. Dean passed away at 1:30 p.m., Saturday, May 22nd, after a lingering illness. About three years ago she was attacked with leprosy, which subsequently developed into consumption and for the past half year she was unable to leave her bed. All through her illness she manifested a spirit of cheerfulness and of resignation to the divine will. The deceased was the daughter of John W. Dean, son, now of Deseronto, was born at Camden East and had attained her thirty-fifth year. She was married to William Dean, a son of the late Norman James, aged fourteen, another child, a daughter, having died in infancy.
She was consistent member of the Methodist church. The funeral, which was numerously attended, took place at 2:30 p.m., on Tuesday. Religious services were conducted by the Methodist church by Rev. G. H. Copeland, after which the remains were interred in the Deseronto cemetery. The bearers were Messrs. J. W. Dean, of Leyton Hastings Lodge, No. 158, O. O. F., and J. W. Lloyd, A. D. McIntyre, John G. Gaudy, Peter Montmyre, and Jas. Watson.

water when the animal turned and, in a playful mood, kicked him on the jaw.
He is doing as well as can be expected, but will be laid up for some time.

Deseronto Defeats Belleville.

The Deseronto Cricket Club defeated Belleville in a friendly game played at Belleville on the 24th. Belleville went to bat first and ran up a score of 42, of which 21 were made by J. A. Mc-Robert. Deseronto followed with 20 in the first innings and such ill-luck occurred that the innings made 46, of which 21 were to the credit of Goldsmith. Deseronto in the second innings made 44, of which 21 were to Crooke. Crooke batted in good form and ran up a score of 30 before he was retired. Crooke made 4 more runs he was laid out. Allum by steady play ran up 25, and Hensley was beginning to show. Deseronto had already secured sufficient runs to ensure victory with seven wickets to spare. The scores were—
